Membership In The CommonWealth Purchasing Group

WHAT IS A GROUP PURCHASING ORGANIZATION?

A group purchasing organization (GPO) is a member-based organization that combines the purchasing power of several members in order to provide volume savings they couldn't otherwise access as a single organization. In a GPO, vendors treat all members like one big company and base pricing and other benefits on total sales to the group. Because of the combined volume being purchased by multiple businesses, vendors offer better pricing and customer service on the products and services members use every day.

HOW GPOS ARE ORGANIZED

Many GPOs specialize in a particular industry - healthcare, electronics manufacturers, grocery chains, etc. Others are organized by location and may include a variety of industries. Single-focus GPOs typically provide greater value to members, with competitive contracts that cater to their industry-specific needs.

HERE ARE JUST A FEW OF THE BENEFITS OF JOINING A GPO

- » Lower prices for members on the products and services they need to conduct business every day.
- » Improved customer service (which includes a variety of activities) can account for 50% or more of total savings for GPO members. For example, contracting vendors often waive delivery fees and other charges that "standalone" customers pay.
- » GPO vendors often offer additional services such as helping members to identify lower-cost alternative products - typically vendor house brands or generics - that will meet the members' needs and save money.
- » Save time and money with consolidated billing, inventory management, simplified ordering, and many other supply chain improvements.

WHAT SETS CPG APART?

With more than 450 members in 35 states, CommonWealth Purchasing Group (CPG) is the nation's leading group purchasing organization for community health centers and other community-based nonprofits. Members have access to over 50 vendors that offer deep discounts and exceptional customer service.

CPG was developed by community health center professionals to meet the specific needs of health centers and similar nonprofit organizations, from single-site facilities to the largest multi-site systems. The remarkable growth of CPG's membership is strong evidence of how valuable the program is to our members.

There are several features of the CPG program that make it a smart choice for every organization.

No membership fees. There is no cost to join CPG - our members never write us a check. All of our funding comes from administrative fees paid by our vendors.

No more shopping around. Not only will your organization realize significant savings on supplies and services, but you'll have more time for your constituents, your community and your mission.

Flexibility. CPG members use only the vendors they choose - there are no minimum purchase or usage requirements.

Focus and specialization. CPG is focused on serving community health centers and similar nonprofit human service organizations. All of our policies and procedures are carefully designed to be most effective in this industry.

Membership eligibility. CPG welcomes health centers, human service providers, and similar nonprofit organizations.

More vendors mean more choices. CPG members choose from high-performing vendors in areas where they make the majority of their purchases. Most of our vendors are leading national companies and we also offer a number of regional contracts that meet specific needs. CPG regularly audits vendor contracts to assure competitive pricing and high levels of service are maintained.

Free cost-benefit analysis. CPG will perform a free, confidential price comparison that shows your saving opportunities over your current vendors.

Vendor account representatives. Each vendor will assign a dedicated account representative to your organization so every time you call you're working with someone who understands your industry and your specific needs. Our vendors work with members to set up strategies such as inventory management, par levels, timesaving online purchasing, and demand management.

Free reports. Track your total savings and identify future savings opportunities with an annual purchasing snapshot report.

Ongoing education. CommonWealth Purchasing Group offers our members opportunities to learn cutting-edge management and money-saving techniques through conferences, presentations and education sessions customized for your organization.

Advisory board. CPG has a national advisory board that meets quarterly to provide strategic advice, give feedback on program performance and impact, and share ideas about additional product sectors and potential new vendors. It's made up of senior staff from our members, including CEOs, CFOs and COOs.

Independence. CPG is an independent group purchasing organization. We do not endorse a remote "parent" GPO, so we contract directly with each of our vendors. For our members this means we establish and maintain every aspect of our program, from vendor selection to program performance and impact.

3. START SAVING!

Growth, success and over $180 million saved

Community health centers and other nonprofit organizations face a daunting challenge in maintaining good financial health. Rising prices, increased demand for services, and tighter budgets put constant pressure on management and staff to make the best possible use of every dollar.

A SOLUTION TO THE PROBLEM.

In 1998, CommonWealth Purchasing Group was created by the Massachusetts League of Community Health Centers - the Primary Care Association for the state - to address these issues. What started with only a few members and one vendor contract has grown exponentially into the nation's foremost group purchasing organization in the health care industry.

Today, we combine the purchasing power of more than 450 member organizations in 35 states to negotiate savings and superior service from a portfolio of more than 50 nationally recognized vendors. From medical, dental and office supplies to computers, copiers and communications systems, CPG vendors deliver deep discounts and outstanding service. Members have purchased over $500 million in supplies and services and have saved over $160 million.

EXPANDING OUR REACH.

As we've grown, a number of other types of human service providers - primary care associations, community action agencies, family planning programs, and others - have joined to take advantage of member savings.

ENHANCING MEMBER BENEFITS.

It's of the utmost importance to us that our members' needs are not just met, but their expectations exceeded. Our portfolio of vendors, products and services continues to grow - we love finding new opportunities for members to save.

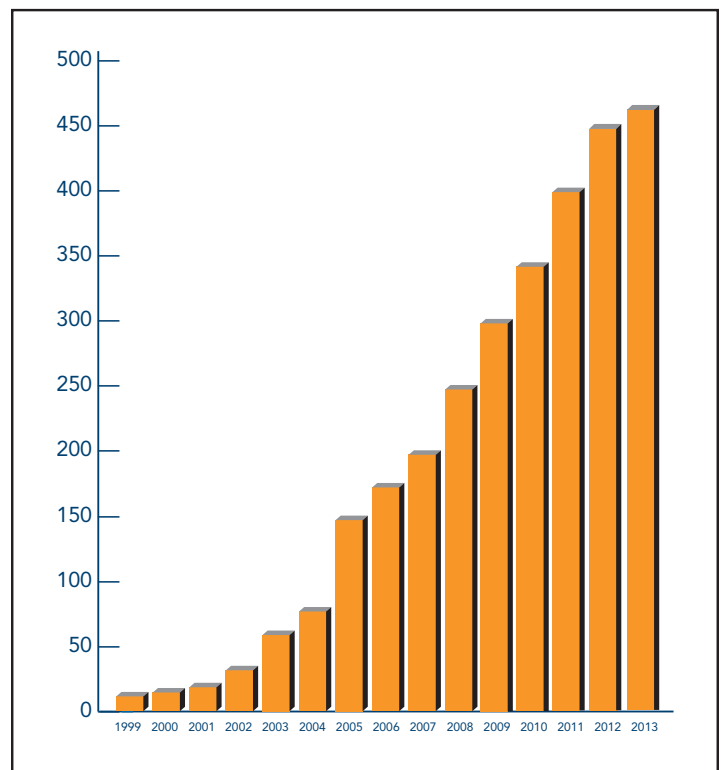

THANK YOU FOR HELPING US GROW.

Over the years, the success and growth that CPG has seen can be attributed to the large number of referrals that we've received from members. These referrals are the lifeblood of our organization and a true testament to the value our members receive from their memberships.

MEMBERSHIP IS EASY AND FREE.

The best part about being a CPG member is that members access all the benefits of our program with no fees and no obligations - members can pick and choose only the contracts that work for them. The program is fully supported by administrative fees paid by our vendors.

If you'd like to learn more about the CommonWealth Purchasing Group and how we can help your organization save time and money on your purchases, give us a call today or find an application online at www.cwpurchasing.com.

Total year-end CPG membership for each year since 1999.

Exactly how much can your organization save?

Find out with a free apples-to-apples cost comparison.

Before you join Commonwealth Purchasing Group, we'll provide you with a detailed estimate of the savings you can expect with a no cost, no obligation "apples-to-apples" comparison.

To develop your estimate we'll take a representative sample of your most recent invoices and conduct a two-part analysis. (Note: A "representative sample" should be broad enough to include all of the products you routinely use to serve your patients and run your business. Typically, this is about one month of invoices; somewhat more for smaller centers, and perhaps a little less for very large organizations that order more frequently.)

We use invoices because they contain important information about the quantities you're using and the Stock Keeping Unit (the "SKU" is the bar code information found on nearly every product from groceries to syringes which uniquely identifies the product, manufacturer and packaging.)

PART ONE. The first part of the analysis compares your current prices with discounted pricing available through CPG's vendor contracts. This is a precise, "apples-to-apples" comparison. If we are unable to identify any item on your invoice we leave that item out of the analysis and note the omission (the vast majority of products have a universal SKU, but with some specialty items or house brands it is sometimes impossible to identify an exact match.)

This will give you a simple, three-part comparison:

1. Here are the products you're currently buying and using;
2. Here's what you're currently paying; and
3. Here's what you will pay with CPG's discounted pricing.

PART TWO. The second part of the analysis offers you options on lower-cost products. In the purchasing world this is known as "scrubbing the buy." CPG vendors will examine your current products and suggest alternative products - usually generics or house brands - wherever these are available. Of course, decisions on whether to switch to these alternatives are entirely up to you.

The complete analysis gives you the information you need to decide whether CPG can deliver value for your organization.*

*CPG's contracted low prices are the result of our members banding together. Prices are not manipulated to make comparisons look more attractive. Most of the comparisons are completed by independent bid analysts. Health centers are asked to participate in our code of ethics by not sharing our contract pricing with their current vendors.

GET YOUR APPLES-TO-APPLES COMPARISON

We are thrilled to have the opportunity to show you how much your organization can be saving when you buy the same products you're already using through Commonwealth Purchasing Group's nationally recognized vendors. Here's how to get your comparison:

Send us a representative sample of invoices along with a cover letter that includes your organization's name and address, and the name of the person to whom we should send analysis results, including their title, phone number and email address.

Introducing the Community Health Center (CHC) Self-Funded Health Plan

the rising costs of health benefit plans

Health centers typically spend 75-80% of total budget on providing for a high quality workforce. That number continues to rise as centers see a range of cost increases including in their fully insured health benefit plans. CommonWealth Purchasing Group (CPG) now offers an alternative self-funded health plan arrangement that provides a custom plan framework with the opportunity for significant savings without the loss of quality benefits.

The CHC Self-Funded Health Plan allows centers to pay the cost of covered care up to a predetermined cap after which stop-loss insurance coverage picks up all additional eligible costs. You can offer benefits comparable to your fully insured program with a fixed cap on health center costs for services backed by stop-loss insurance.

With this approach, your center will never pay more than the contractual maximum. If service expenses are less than expected, your health center - not the insurance company - saves 100% of the difference. If your costs go over the cap, then the stop-loss insurance kicks in.

The self-funded difference: Fixed vs. variable costs. In a fully insured plan you pay a fixed monthly premium, regardless of your claims. Alternatively, CHC Self-Funded Health Plan costs are divided into three categories - administrative costs (fixed), stop-loss insurance costs (fixed), and covered health plan benefit claims (variable and based upon your center's actual use). If the claims cost reaches the maximum self-insured cost estimates and the stop-loss is reached, then the stop-loss insurance pays 100% of the additional covered costs. However, if the claims costs are less than the projected self-funded costs, then your health center keeps 100% of the difference.

HIGHLY CUSTOMIZED TO YOUR CENTER'S NEEDS

Member CHCs benefit by joining a large nationally established system of self-insured plans and provider networks. Craft a plan that fits your center's unique needs.

Benefits selection. Your center contracts with the CPG-designated Third Party Administrator and handpicks the benefits to be offered to your employees.

Choices. Your center chooses an individual stop-loss level and one of two convenient payment options to meet your cash flow preferences.

Flexibility. Modifications to your self-funded plan can easily be made, including changing co-pays and deductibles, adding or deleting specific services, or choosing a preferred provider network from the available choices.

Data you can use. Ongoing analytic data reports reflect service costs and utilization while protecting your employees' private health information under HIPAA. Data can be used to improve outcomes, reduce costs and even to develop strategies for preventive health care practices and plan design.

Added bonuses. Self-funded health plans are recognized as ERISA plans, exempting your center from paying state premium taxes and possibly some state health benefit requirements.

PROVEN SAVINGS

A study of community health centers showed a projected savings ranging from 6% to over 30% when centers compared their current plans with an identical plan under the CHC Self-Funded Health Plan*.

TAKING THE NEXT STEP.

Participate in a review and see if a CHC Self-Funded Health Plan can save your center as much as 30% on its health insurance costs.

A turnkey solution to patient communications

Solid patient communications are an essential part of clinical care. When direct communication between provider and patient is required, no external system can be an effective substitute. Appointment reminders and follow up, scheduling, insurance eligibility and enrollment, and a variety of other patient communications are usually performed by staff and are an integral contributor to operational success.

But in the changing health care environment, with programs such as patient-centered medical homes, accountable care organizations, shared savings, and other, similar initiatives, there is a need to expand beyond the traditional face-to-face or direct staff means of communicating with patients. These new clinical and reimbursement plans place a much greater emphasis on quality and outcomes, usually reinforced by financial rewards or penalties for poor performance. Timely, accurate information that is both linguistically and culturally appropriate must be available to patients 24/7. Important tasks - from language translation to patient satisfaction surveys - must be done more efficiently to protect scarce resources.

The MedVia patient communications program has been developed to help CPG members respond to these new challenges. As a complement to provider and staff interactions, MedVia can expand the scope and availability of health center communications with both current and prospective patients. MedVia can handle many routine tasks, such as appointment reminders or rescheduling, freeing up vital staff time for direct patient interaction. MedVia can support a range of clinical and administrative activities to help your health center improve performance and manage costs.
