

Maureen Killackey MD, FACOG, FACS, Chair, ACOG District II's Cervical Cancer and Survivorship Task Force, invites you to register for 2 FREE CME programs

Date: October 23, 2009, 1:00pm – 3:00pm

Location: Grand Hyatt New York

Cost: FREE

1:00 – 2:00pm

Cervical Cancer Update: HPV Typing, Testing and the Vaccine

Faculty: Jason Wright MD, FACOG, of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at Columbia University Medical Center and Adina Keller MD, FACOG of the Mount Kisco Medical Group.

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

- Review the latest data describing available human papillomavirus vaccines;
- Understand the role of HPV testing in clinical practice; and
- Describe the role of HPV genotyping.

2:00 – 3:00pm

Addressing the Unique Health Care Needs of a Patient After Cancer Treatment

Faculty: Mary S. McCabe RN, MA, Director of the Cancer Survivorship Program at the Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and Maureen Killackey MD, FACOG, FACS, Chair of the ACOG District II Cancer Survivorship Task Force.

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

- Communicate effectively with patients' oncology team to coordinate optimal survivorship care;
- Identify the most common cancer sites among female cancer survivors;
- Understand and be sensitive to the long-term and late effects that may result from cancer treatment, and how to appropriately care for your patient experiencing these effects (including referring to other health care providers when relevant); and
- Identify cancer survivorship resources available for referral.

To register, visit www.acogny.org

Questions? Contact Kate Lichten at klichten@ny.acog.org or 518-436-3461.

Please feel free to share this invitation with interested colleagues.

Supported by the New York State Cancer Services Program